Parish Fire Plan Called 'Impractical'

Mayor Of West Monroe Suggests Reconsideration

By RICHARD TYLER World Staff Writer

West Monroe Mayor J. Allan Norris said Friday, in effect, the Ouachita Parish Police Jury's plan for rural fire protection is "impractical." He cited a "moral obligation" for West Monroe to fight fires west of the river. Norris said he was "disappointed by the action of the police jury Wednesday, and added a "hope they will reconsider.

REFERS TO ACTION

The action he referred to was the jury's creation of a parishwide rural fire district, essentially rejecting the idea of forming a West Ouachita district.

'From a physical standpoint. I think it is evident that it is impractical for firefighting equipment to cross the Quachita River and go through two city traffic complexes in order to reach the scene of a fire outside the western city limits of West Monroe," the mayor said. "Furthermore, we feel that it is somewhat of a moral obligation for West Monroe to fight fires west of the river.

Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak defended the rescue of white hostages in the Congo as a last recourse undertaken after Congo rebels threatened to cook them alive. ### Indonesian Outrages

Two distinct and separate things sin connection with the burning of *United States libraries in Indonesia strike us as being outrageous to an extraordinary degree. One is the burning of the libraries themselves. The other is the unconscionable decision of the Johnson administration to continue sending foreign aid to Indonesia, despite its assaults, affronts and insults.

The Johnson administration is "turning the other cheek" to the latest anti-United States outrage in Indonesia and is continuing unchanged the multi-million-dollar giveaway aid program there. Under carefully undisclosed provisions, large quantities of military equipment are being sent to this war-mongering southeast Asian

Figures have been submitted to show that foreign aid donations made by the United States to other countries total more than one-third of the vast debt of this country, on which we pay millions in interest every year. Without the billions in donations to other countries, we probably would have been able to pay off our entire debt, by paying the principal instead of wasting such huge sums on inter-

In ignoring the recent sacking and burning of a 27,000-book United States Information Service library in Jakarta and the still more recent pillaging of the U.S.I.S. library in Surabaya, along with the Sukarno regime's insolent refusal to apologize or compensate for this officially-instigated mob violence, the administration is adhering to a policy that apparently goes far beyond the realm of reason. It did the same thing earlier this year after Sukarno insultingly proclaimed, "To Hell with United States aid."

Indonesia is getting $10 million this fiscal year in an unannounced three-year counter-insurgency aid program totaling $61,667,000. The funds for these military activities are coming from money voted by Congress for foreign economic aid. Senator Strom Thurmond of publican and threw his support to former Senator Barry Goldwater in the latter's race for the presidency, is strongly conservative but even he looks with more leniency on our giveaway foreign aid program than we are able to muster. Senator Thurmond said:

"The basic policy underlying our foreign aid program is the notion that friendship can be purchased. Another basic fault lies in the gross mismanagement which has been evident in the program since its inception. Then there is also the inordinate leeway which the aid administrators have been permitted to assume. Foreign aid has its proper place when made available to friendly nations in a reasonable amount, preferably through loans, to help them turn the tide against communism and in favor of freedom. This is the only justification for a foreign aid program."

If that is the only justification, and we agree that it is, then, in the light of administration activity, there is no justification and the entire foreign aid program ought to be abandoned. We are unable to cite a single instance in which the advance of communism has been retarded and in a great number of instances our money has gone to the side of communists, instead of against them.

Sukarno's regime is not anticommunist. In fact, there is much reason to believe he operates under communist direction. Why the United States should suffer insults and assaults for the sake of aiding an administration which does nothing against communism is something that cannot be understood and apparently is devoid of all

If our administration spends more than half of its giveaway money in aiding our enemies, which seems to be an inescapable conclusion, the people and Congress should demand a halt to all foreign aid and should demand that the money thus being thrown down "rat-holes" either should not be taken from the people in the form of taxes or should be used in pay-South Carolina, who became a Re- ing off our huge debt

Liking Your Image

Practically no one is ever satisfied with the way his profession is depicted in comic strips or in the world of moving pictures. Perhaps this is because these media use somewhat the same technique as the cartoonist-that is, they emphasize and magnify whatever peculiarities that may exist.

This magnifying is especially noticeable if the cartoonist doesn't care too much for the views and actions of his subjects. Cartoons of President Johnson usually show him with an extremely long nose and chin, which practically meet. Those of Vice - President - Elect Hubert H. Humphrey show him with a tiny nose and mouth and huge forehead. Exaggeration in cartoons is the life of things.

Newspapermen are always disgusted at seeing themselves portrayed in plays and movies in an unrealistic light.

At a recent convention of police chiefs, disapproval was expressed at the way the police chief in Fearless Fosdick is always shown taking bribes and payoffs and kicking poor Fosdick into garbage cans when he tries to arrest the wrongdoers.

Some lawyers say Perry Mason should be shot because he never loses a case, thus making them look less brilliant in the eyes of their clients if they lose one. Doctors aren't fond of Ben Casey or Dr. Kildare.

Images these days are something to be reckoned with. The late President Franklin D. Roosevelt was an expert in self-imagery but he never publicized the fact, as the late John F. Kennedy did. Kennedy barred family quotations and unposed pictures of his family at society events on the ground that it would damage their "images," although many thought he merely did not want anyone to get a true picture. The word "image" at that time fell a little into disrepute.

This "image" business has been enjoying such a popularity run recently, however, that books such as "The Magic Power of Self-Image Psychology" are being advocated as a possible improvement over such types as "The Power of Positive Thinking," although it is conceded that kind is still good. Nowadays "the magic power of self-image psychology" is practically guaranteed to "transform poverty into riches, loneliness into love, disgrace into glory and failure into success." You can use your new self-image to "achieve the wishes of your dreams" and to "remake your shattered life into a blazing

We have always heard, though, that the eyes are the windows to the soul and, if that is true, anyone pretty much has to make his image from within and let it shine out. Our day to day acts make up the image other people see, and influence our images of ourselves

Democracy And Religion

· Before any dictator can dominate his country completely, he must subjugate the newspapers, for as long as the people are told the facts, they won't give up. Also, before a dictatorship is complete, it must rule out God because the dictator wants to set himself up as

From a small newspaper in Smithville, Tex., come these words of wisdom.

"Many of us have already reached the age where future of our country has little meaning personally. But what about our children, our grandchildren and our great-grandchildren? Shall we 'visit' upon them the 'iniquity of the father?' Or shall we leave them a heritage such as we received from our forefathers. In our humble opinion, a 'back to God' movement can do more good for our nation than a thousand planks in a political platform."

Physician's Wife Speaks Her Mind

For a change, let's take a look around at the base of the pedestal. What did the wife of the doctor say? Too often is she the silent member of the team. Therefore, occasionally, I like to bring a doctor's wife into the column.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I meant to write to you some time ago when I read your remarks regarding "Senior Citizens" 'Oldsters.'' I must say that since I am rapidly approaching the time when I can be referred to as a Senior Citizen I will just hate it! I would rather be called an Oldster - I hope a gay and giddy one - but not Senior Citizen. I agree with you wholeheartedly. It sounds too stuffy for words

Now that I have that off my chest, here is another thing I'd like to talk about. Your recent column on the poor mixed-up 19year-old who blamed her "older" mother for her state of not fitting in, just irked me I am almost 53 years old. My daughter just turned 15 and my son will be 13 in a few months. As you can figure out, they were born to older parents and they have been such a joy. My husband is a busy obstetrician, so if the good Lord had not blessed us with these two I would be a very lonely woman. As it is I'm too busy beging a chauffeur, housewife, settler, of innumerable squabbles, etc., to have any time to worry over their social adjustments.

NO TIME TO WORRY

They are nice kids and I think they like us as we like them. I was 41 when the menopause came my way and with two babies in diapers, that critical period of my life was encountered with practically no attention. I had no time to worry about it. Chalk up one more plus for having children late in life. I'd have two more tomorrow if I could. - Mrs. S.

ceived many scores of letter reacting to the column of the 19year-old who blamed her unhappiness on being born to an "old" mother. The tally sheet is conclusive. With but few exceptions, older parents (and children born to older parents) write that they wouldn't have had it any other way.

Let nature take its course. If you want to have children when you are still young, fine However, if you are in the late 20's and into the 30's (early or late) and have doubts about raising a family at a late date there is the other side. Most who have written me about their own experiences extol late parenthood. Too many still consider it a catastrophe to have a child when well into the 30's.

Mr. Y.: Medically speaking, a 'host' is a patient who harbors a parasite, a germ or a growth.

DEAR DR. STEINCROHN: Believe me, there are some oldfashioned (if not old) doctors ered my three babies and has of problem for 16 years was so concerned when I asked for a few sleeping pills that he came over to discover what my state of mind was before he would give me anv

Dr. Steincrohn is sorry he cannot answer readers' letters. Nevertheless, most questions are answered in later columns.

After all, there are no important elections until 1966. Time enough to let Burch stay on so as not to act symbolical ly against Goldwater; and time enough to remove him a year or so from now when such a deed will pass more easily as anti - Burch rather than anti-

> GOLDWATER, AFTER all, is still a force majeure, and his influence will count heavily in favor of Burch. If it were not for Goldwater's extraordinary good nature, the question of whether Burch will stay would end with Goldwater's decision that he should. Because Goldwater's deathly sanction publicly to state an explicit dissatisfaction with the Republican Party - would collapse the That is Goldwater's Big Bertha: but he will probably never fire it, both because of the aforesaid goodnature and because of his sense of devotion to the party. On the other hand, he is not likely to let the GOP get into the hands of those elements in the party whom he (a) distrusts for ideological reasons, and (b) has every reason to disdain when they call for a party unity so soon after acting as agents of disunity.

meaning of Goldwater's cryptic announcement in Jamaica sug gesting the apparent necessity for realignment. He could not have meant seriously to suggest that the time had come for such a thing - it is after all fatuous to propose to the Democrats, having just won 62 per cent of the votes, how to reorganize so as to become a more effective political vehicle. The purpose was to signal to the blood-thirsty executioners in the Republican Party who are drooling at the prospect of purging Burch and his associates, that he. Godwater, is in a position to force the reaignment of the parties, which if he did so, would leave the liberals who took over the GOP presiding over a corporate shell. As I say, Goldwater isn't that kind of a man. But he made his point, which is why Burch will probably stay for a while.

women will meet in 51 separate places and do what 70,000-000 men and women thought they were doing on November 3 -elect a President and Vice President of the United States.

Thus the nation is within hours of the second key date in the process of choosing and installing its President and Vice President. These dates are:

November 3 to December 14. December 14 to January 6. January 6 to January 20.

If between any Presidential election in November and the meeting of the Electoral College in December the President-elect or Vice President-elect were to die, and time remained for such action, the 102-member National Committee (two members from each State and the District of Columbia) would assemble and select a replacement candidate. Presumably the National Committee of the party which elected the minority of the Electoral College would also choose a replacement to receive a complimentary vote if either man on the national ticket should a vacancy occur.

THE CONSTITUTION, of course, does not require the electors to accept the substitute. The electors cannot postpone their December meeting. If it was the President who was fatally stricken the electors in all likelihood would elevate the Vice Presidential candidate who was on the winning November ticket. Should something happen to the Vice Presidential candidate then the Presidential candidate who had won the majority of the electors in November might appeal to them to elect a substitute Vice Presidential candidate desired by him which they would not have to do, but as a practical matter probably

ON JANUARY 6 the President of the Senate opens, announces and counts the votes before a joint session of Congress. Great doubt exists about what would happen if either the Presidentelect or Vice President - elect died between December 14 and January 6. Some lawyers say that Congress probably would count the votes only for the living man. If it were the President who was living there would be no Vice President for four years unless a Constitutional amendment was submitted by Congress and ratified by the States during that time. If it was the Vice President who was living on January 6 he probably would be elected Vice President and become President on Janu-

The Twentieth Amendment specifically says:

"If at the time fixed for the beginning of the term of President, the President shall have the Vice President-elect shall become President.'

Thus the electoral college system works. In all our history there have been only two cases of death of major party candidates and neither figures in the election outcome.

IN 1872 HORACE Greeley ran as a Democrat and Liberal Republican against President Grant. Greeley died in late November before the Electoral College met in December. But Grant had carried 31 States with 286 electoral votes. Greeley had carried only Texas, Tennessee, Missouri, Kentucky, Georgia and Maryland with 66 electoral votes. The Greeley electors for the most part cast complimentary votes for other men. Three in Georgia cast their's for Greeley, but Congress refused to accept them be cause Greeley was already dead when the votes were cast.

In 1912 Vice President James S. Sherman died just before election and the Republican National Committee named Nicholas Murray Butler in his place. President William Howard Taft and Butler got only the eight electoral votes of Utah and Ver-radiation through his respiratory organs . . . sickness would be unknown, decrepitude would be unthinkable, and longevity would be unlimited."

This is just one of the fantastic claims made by a "professor" in an ad I received via the mails recently. It is typical of the "medical" garbage being thrown now at millions of elder ly American citizens - and tragically typical of what is actually being swallowed by millions today.

Bilking the elderly - through medical quackery, phony investment and "savings" plans, mail-order schemes, fraudulent real estate deals and many other techniques - is today among the most widespread and vicious rackets in the U.S.

A few months ago, a Senate Subcommittee on Frauds and Misrepresentations Affecting the Elderly held one of the most hair - raising investigations of this type of racketeering ever conducted. It concluded that the accepted estimate that the el derly are being gypped out of $1 billion a year is "much too low." Says Senator Harrison A. Williams, New Jersey Democrat and chairman of the sub-

'WE DON'T KNOW how bad the situation is because the quack has secrecy and the embarrassment of his victims on his side." It could be that elderly people are wasting 10 cents out of every spending dollar on fraudulent, useless or grossly misrepresented products and services. And, adds Williams. 'Quacks take more than dol lars. They sometimes prevent cure or the hope of cure.'

As a result of its probe, the subcommittee is preparing recommendations for major new legislation to be introduced early in the new Congress.

Today there are 18 million Americans over 65 - including 900,000 over the age of 90. Their annual spending power amounts to an unprecedented $38 billion. The vast majority live on modest pensions and Social Security benefits.

Why do the elderly fall prey to the quacks? Why are they now a number one target for gypsters?

They fall prey to health quacks because an estimated 75 per cent are suffering from some chronic disease or ailment such as arthritis, heart disease, insomnia, faulty hearing or failing eyesight. Many look to the future with fear. Testified one man whose wife died of cancer: "They're afraid of what the doctor will tell them. They're glad to be told (by a

"IF MAN CONSUMED only quack) that they won't need

THEY ARE VULNERABLE to phony money-making or investing schemes because their individual incomes are generally low. A 1961 White House Conference on Aging found that 75 per cent of those over 65 had incomes of less than $1,000 a year and 15 per cent received less than $500.

They are number one target for gypsters because their over-all spending power is an awesome $38 billion a year.

Warns Senator Williams "The quacks are large - scale merchandisers who use every modern method. They make mass mailings. They send salesmen from door to door. They advertise in high and low pressure ways." George P. Larrick, U.S. Food and Drug commissioner, makes the point even

"Quackery is not something that happened in the past. Old frauds reappear in new disguises and new ones are being invented. There is a tendency to depict quackery in the trappings of the old-time medicine man with his curly moustache and silk hat.

"He does not look that way any more. Instead, we see a man in a white coat with a professional looking office who is probably a licensed practitioner and who has a machine or treatment that is so new and different that the medical profession is against it (the quacks . They are afraid it will put them out of business."

Who are the gypsters and what do they peddle? What are we doing to stop them? Tomorrow: Health quackery

More Boots Mean Much More Fashion

Boots, which came storming into fashion several seasons ago, have stayed to become fair weather favorites. Functional, or simply femme fatale, there is a boot this season for every fashion fancy Silhouettes are slimmer now and often quite high. Secret of the skinny shaping is the use of stretch fabrics, lacings, elastic orings and zippers. One of the slimmest, side-laced and climbing above the knee, is strictly for the long legged and very young. Or, for a really way-out look, there is the stretch pants boot, a soaring, clinging spat with a matching shoe. The spat idea, catching on fast, could mean a number of coverings in various fabrics that are intended to be worn over a high heelshoe for town, or a low boot almost everywhere.

Boots that reach just short of the knee have, perhaps, the broadest fashion potential. They may have heels of any height. ween they are in brushed or saddle leathers, canvas or heavy knitted wool they could go for a sallie to the supermarket or a walk in the deepest country. City types are apt to be of petal-soft suede, reptile or patent.

Slightly lower, the boot takes to more decorative devices. One swashy little buckler has a pale pigskin shell and a wrapped cavalier-buckled vamp of brown suede.
